Successful Businessman Writes “this Century’s First Great Teaching Novel”

(according to David Langer of the Visioneering News Service) Jean-Claude Koven was a marketing whiz all his life, founding and operating a number of successful companies both in the U.S. and abroad. However, as successful as he was, he harbored deeper and more mystical passions. Finally, after 40 years of studying and teaching metaphysics and spirituality, the multi-dimensional Koven has released his first book, which is, according to acclaimed author and teacher Jean Houston, “a metaphysical masterpiece”. Koven embodies the new ideal of sage: a person who lives this world, that world, and all worlds with equal joy and skill. Koven inspires and elevates seekers of all kinds by his real-life example.

Teaching Stories Through the Ages

From time immemorial, the most relevant information about life – about the tribe, about relationships, about ourselves – has been passed from generation to generation through stories. From Homer’s Iliad and Odyssey, to Dante’s Inferno, and more recently to successful novels such as Daniel Quinn’s Ishmael and James Redfield’s The Celestine Prophecy, both of which topped bestseller lists, we learn most easily through the medium of storytelling. Now, a new novel carries forth the tradition with great wit and depth of meaning. Going Deeper – How to Make Sense of Your Life When Your Life Makes No Sense, by Jean-Claude Koven, is sending shock waves through spiritual communities around the world.

Where Does This Material Come From?

Modern spiritual and metaphysical literature is filled with writings whose origins are mysterious and ambiguous. Several generations have argued about whether or not the adventures with Don Juan actually happened to Carlos Castaneda ... about whether or not Lynne Andrews actually experienced the shamanic trainings she reported in her Jaguar Woman book series ... and about whose voice spoke the words in Course in Miracles? Now, in his new book, Going Deeper – How to Make Sense of Your Life When Your Life Makes No Sense, author Jean-Claude Koven enlightens readers with a depth and breadth of metaphysical experience and knowledge that will once again incite the same debate.

Are We Victims of Our Own Game, Gone Badly Wrong?

It would appear that we are quite mad, recklessly destroying our planet and each other. But this is just the tip of the iceberg. All the old axioms supporting our past assurances of reality are beginning to fall apart. Family structures...relationships...careers...self-image...finances...government...even our time-honored concepts of morality seem to be crumbling in the whirlwind of some implacable energetic imperative. And yet, according to Jean-Claude Koven, author of the metaphysical masterpiece Going Deeper, the tidal waves of change are right on schedule. In fact, the changes are predictable! Koven's book shows clearly and persuasively the who, what, where, when, and why of all this seeming out of control change.
